The Macquarie University Speech Clinic provides best-practice clinical services in Speech Pathology. Generalist and specialist services are available for all ages in the following areas:

- speech and articulation
- stuttering
- language and literacy
- voice
- accent modification
- neurological disorders, e.g. brain injury, stroke

Services include clinic, school, home or workplace assessments and treatment plans, and individual or group therapy.

Educational seminars for parents, teachers health professionals and others are also available on request.

Research findings are integrated into clinical practice through collaboration with academics to ensure clients receive the most effective services available. Clients are seen by either Speech Pathologists or student Speech Pathologists under supervision as part of the Master of Speech and Language Pathology program.
